Attendees: E, Mann, B. Bateman, A. Branton, C. Campbell, L. Fonder-Solano, S. Hughes, M. Miles, L. Nored, J. Norton, B. Powell, K. Reidenback; Guests: Julie Howdeshell, Kathryn Lowery, Jalynn Roberts.

1.0 Approval of agenda: No changes
2.0 Guests: Ms. Julie Howdeshell, Director-Quality Enhancement
   Topic: “Spring 2009 Assessment Study”

2.1 Ms. Howdeshell discussed the purpose of the QEP Writing Data study and the rubric designed to measure the QEP Written Communication Student Learning Outcomes to assess written outcomes of papers submitted by undergraduate students in the Capstone program for the preliminary findings of the QEP report 2009. Written papers were assessed in six areas: purpose and content, evidence-based reasoning, structure, language, audience and documentation of sources. USM QEP goal was set for 70% of participants to meet or exceed the proficiency targets. Each paper was graded separately by two graduate assistants who have taught English 101 and 102, and the two scores per paper were averaged. The average results indicate that 60% of papers assessed met expectations; QEP students scored higher than non-QEP students. (QEP Writing Data, 2009, p.7). In Spring 2010, another assessment will be given to include both writing and speaking skills. With additional data to review, improvements will be made to meet the 70% goal.

Guest: Jalynn Roberts, Institutional Effectiveness
Topic: “MAPP Analysis Highlights of Capstone Students Spring 2009”

2.2 Dr. Roberts explained that the purpose of the Measure of Academic Proficiency and Progress (MAPP) analysis is to prepare a college portrait of the USM student. Student profile is based on those senior capstone students who self-report they have completed 90 semester hours. The 40 minute abbreviated form of the MAPP was taken by 725 capstone students via online or written in proctored administrations. Skills measured are reading and critical thinking, writing, and mathematics; each skill tested into three proficiency levels of 1, 2, and 3 in three academic contexts: humanities, social sciences, and natural sciences. See http://www.southernmiss.org/ie/General%20MAPP%20Procedures.pdf
Proficiencies in all skill areas were fairly evenly distributed between three ranks in the 25\textsuperscript{th} percentile, 50\% percentile and the 75\% percentile, with a mean score of 447.17 within a range of 400 to 500 (MAPP Analysis Highlights, 2009, p.9). Comparison of results by college, by campus, by student profile, by method of test administration and by national scores was provided and discussion followed. Concern was expressed about the reliability of the test and the lack of incentive to do well and how these factors may have impacted outcomes. Is there a need for greater uniformity of method of administering the test: more students took the test in proctored environments than those taking the test via online.

3.0 Approval of minutes: Moved to approve: S. Hughes; 2\textsuperscript{nd}: C. Campbell

4.0 Committee reports from CoC representatives

4.1 Provost Council—Ed Mann reporting. No report.

4.2 RCM Budget Committee—Skip Hughes reporting: Attended second meeting of the RCM committee. Currently exploring how to implement RCM. Have re-scheduled to visit Iowa State University for February. The committee is in its formative stages and is not ahead of the UPC efforts.

4.3 UPC—Tim Rehner reporting: Serving as co-chair of the UPC and meeting weekly. There is now a college sub-committee on administrative services and a second sub-committee of administrative support services that report directly to the provost. Guidelines and definitions of terms are being written. (What is a program or a department?) Some programs share courses, for example, some of which are not part of a degree plan. A template for department reports is being prepared and may be no more than 10 pages. Recommended reading: LB2341 .D523 1999 Dikesson, Robert C. Prioritizing academic programs and services: reallocating resources to achieve strategic balance. San Francisco: Jossey-Bass Publishers, c1999. In Cook Library.

4.8 Ad hoc committee for Faculty Expectations—Joe Olmi reporting. For J. Olmi, Ed Mann made a few comments on the culture of ratings in annual evaluations. We have a culture where high or inflated evaluations of 5 or Far Exceeds Expectations has become a norm more often than not to compensate for years with no increases in salaries through pay raises.
