

Journal of Health Ethics

Call for Publications

Puberty Blocking Drugs

Call for Publications

The Journal of Health Ethics (JHE), a peer-reviewed journal housed at the University of Southern Mississippi, is dedicating 2024 to the debate surrounding Puberty Blocking Drugs.

Authors are asked to share their scholarship in forms of manuscripts, stories, poems, songs, and/or research to inform the burgeoning Puberty Blocking Drug debate. We invite all views to submit works for consideration.

Contact Information

<https://aquila.usm.edu/ojhe>.

Journal of Health Ethics (google)

Look for Submission Guidelines at the journal website

Deadlines for submissions

February 10, 2024, for Spring Issue of JHE

September 15, 2024, for Winter Issue of JHE

Are the effects of puberty blocking drugs reversible?

What are the long-term effects of taking puberty blocking drugs?

Should parents be informed if their teenage child desires to take puberty blocking drugs?

What is the position of the American Pediatric Association on Puberty Blocking Drugs?

What are the short and long-term effects of puberty blocking drugs on young people experiencing gender dysphoria?

What are the health benefits for use of puberty blocking drugs and for whom?

We invite those who are interested in serving as reviewers to kindly submit your names for consideration to:

Sheila Davis: PhD, FNP, FAAN, Dip.ACLM - Editor-in-Chief of JHE

Drsheilalifestyleworks@gmail.com

Peter DePergola II, PhD, ThDc, MTS, HEC-c - Executive Editor of JHE

DePergolaP@elms.edu