John Grady

John Grady is an associate professor in the Department of Sport and Entertainment Management at the University of South Carolina. His research interests include stadium accessibility for people with disabilities, risk management, and other legal issues impacting the business of sport. He can be reached at jgrady@sc.edu.